Part B

Heu d'imprimir les cinc pàgines de Reading i Writing que venen a continuació i fer els exercicis que es demanen.

Teniu en compte que:

- Aquests deures s'han de presentar la primera setmana de curs i seran part important de la nota de la pre-avaluació.
- S'han de fer en tinta, amb bona cal·ligrafia i ben presentats.
- Són individuals. Teniu en compte això en especial pel que fa a les petites redaccions que es demanen.

1 Read the text. Then answer the questions.

From a very early age, Neil Armstrong loved aeroplanes. He could fly before he could drive. On 20th July, 1969, Armstrong changed history when he became the first man to walk on the moon. Millions of people were listening as the American astronaut put his left foot on the surface of the moon and said, "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind."

A few minutes later, another astronaut, Edwin Aldrin, joined Armstrong. The two astronauts couldn't believe they were on the moon. They took photographs, collected moon rocks and put a US flag there.

Then they spoke to President Nixon, the US President. After that, the astronauts went to sleep in their lunar module, on the surface of the moon. The next day, they began their journey home. Finally, on 24th July, they arrived safely on Earth. Everyone was waiting excitedly to hear about their experiences.

1 Read the texts and circle the most suitable title for each one.

1 A Canadian man called the police to rescue him... from his cat! The cat didn't want to let the man out of his bathroom. Two policemen, with the help of an animal expert, caught the cat. "I've been in this business for 24 years," said the expert, "and I've never seen a cat focus on one person like that one did." No one knows why the cat suddenly did this.

- a. Cat Rescues Man from Police
- b. Police Rescue Man from Cat

2 Twiggy is the world's only water-skiing squirrel. Lou Ann Best, Twiggy's owner, took him to a boat show in Virginia, USA. There, he water-skied around a small pool, wearing a little life jacket. Twiggy is not the first animal to water-ski. Lou Ann's husband has trained other animals, including two ponies, two dogs, an armadillo and a frog.

- a. Squirrel Skis in Boat Show
- b. Squirrel Learns to Water Ski

1 Read the texts. Then match each text to the correct picture.

① Are you too busy for love? Is it hard for you to meet new people? No problem! Just enter your personal information and preferences into a special badge. If you meet someone with the same interests as you, the badge will light up and you'll know that the two of you have got something in common.

② You can write or draw with it, but it's not an ordinary pen. It has got a memory. If you put the pen in a special box, the memory will store everything you wrote or drew. Then you can connect the box to your computer and transfer the information to your computer's memory.

③ Soon, Internet connections in cars won't be anything new. You will sit comfortably in your car and order pizza, send messages to your friends and find out what is on TV that evening – and your passengers will have on-line entertainment.

2 Answer the questions.

1. What information can you put into the badge? _____
2. What is special about the pen? _____
3. What will you do from your car? _____

3 Find the mistake in each sentence and correct it.
